Tropical Storm Erika

GLYNN COUNTY, Ga. – The Glynn County Emergency Management Agency would like to advise area residents and visitors that Glynn County currently falls within the National Weather Service’s “Cone of Uncertainty” for Tropical Storm Erika. At this time, there are several variables influencing the track, guidance, and development of this system. It is important to closely monitor this storm over the next several days until the models come into closer agreement. We will continue to monitor and provide updates as needed. Everyone is encouraged to begin reviewing plans and making arrangements now should our area be impacted in any way.
